French inspired restaurant, Côte Brasserie has opened one of its largest sites at Trinity Leeds. The 371 sq m restaurant is located on the upper level of the shopping and leisure destination, overlooking the centre's galleried atrium space.

Designed by Cantor Masters, the new Côte Brasserie incorporates the familiar colours and textures of other Côte restaurants, including a mix of oak plank and French concrete floor tiles, grasscloth and gold leaf wallpaper as well as banquette, booth and loose seating. 'We're really excited to have worked on this landmark design for Côte at Trinity; a really vibrant location at the heart of the Northern power house,' Neil Masters, lead designer at Cantor Masters.

The new Côte Brasserie also features a bar area to the front of the restaurant, which has only been incorporated in one other location. Special features also include mirrored coffered ceilings, the bespoke bar design and a circular waiter station.

'Trinity Leeds is a day and evening retail and leisure destination anchored by vibrant experiences. The opening of Côte, with its authentic Parisian offering, further enhances the exciting food and beverage line-up,' says Rob Jewell, portfolio director at Landsec.

Alex Scrimgeour, CEO at Côte Restaurants, adds: 'Leeds is such a busy, thriving city and we are delighted to be opening right in the heart of town. Trinity Leeds has a great reputation for offering a diverse range of food and drink options, we look forward to adding our blend of quality French food, friendly professional service and great value to the mix.'
